3d Yank Day Raid on Berlin

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—Strong forces of U. S. heavy bombers attacked Berlin today for the third American attack in a week against the German capital. Liberators and Fortress formations

RUSSIA—Outline arrow indicates threat the Red Army's new drive holds for Germans in the Dnieper Bend. Despite German counter attacks, the Reds captured Podvolochisk, near Tarnopol. Germans report Russian attacks near Zvenigorodka.

Big Tank Battle On in Ukraine

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—Overpowering heavy German counter-attacks, Red army troops driving toward Rumania are threatening to outflank the important junction city of Tarnopol on the Odessa-Warsaw railway, Moscow dispatches said today.

(An International News Service dispatch from Moscow says that fighting between massive tank armadas in the western Ukraine mounted in intensity today, approaching "hurricane fury," as the German high command hurled crack armor and infantry divisions into a desperate bid to stem the Red army drive toward Rumania. Huge concentrations of German airpower joined the battle.)

Pressing forward over a countryside turned into a mire by early spring thaws, Russian spearheads yesterday captured the town of Igrovitsa, nine miles northwest of Tarnopol and only four miles from the Warsaw railway, a Russian communique announced.

Other forces operating east of Tarnopol actually severed the line in the places 20 miles apart—at Kochanovka, five miles south of Volchinsk and Zelentsy, 15 miles west of Proskurov.

The district center of Staraya Sinyava, 50 miles southeast of Shepetovka and 30 miles northeast of Proskurov, was among the more important towns listed as taken.

Capture of Staraya Sinyava not only cut the Staro-Konstantinov railway, but brought Soviet vanguards to within 25 miles of the Odessa-Warsaw line west of Zumerinka. Svinnyaya, another town captured yesterday, is only four miles from Staro-Konstantinov.

Tanks Pull Red Sledges To Battle Ukraine Mud

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, March 8 (AP)—Marshal Zhukov's first Ukrainian army fought today against some of the worst ground conditions of the Russian-German conflict and what a Red Star front-line reporters called the "growing resistance of the enemy."

"The landscape is becoming exceedingly more complicated," reported Capt. Andrei Belaiev, Red Star correspondent. He said there were many small lakes, which have overflowed large areas of the countryside, as well as numerous streams and small forests.

In this battle of mud, Belaiev reported, the Russians resorted to the use of long lines of sledges hitched behind tanks. Tommy-guns were piled into the sledges and tanks, which cut through the muddy Ukrainian fields to reach the doors behind the enemy lines.

On top of the warmest winter in many years, a sudden spring thaw turned the rolling steppe country if the Ukraine into thousands of square miles of very heavy, sticky mud.

It is too early to say whether the German counterattacks are from the established line where the Nazis intend to hold, or from the remnants of the beaten divisions which have been regrouped and which are seeking to regain control of the Odessa-Warsaw railway.

Le Mans, site of a Renault engine plant and a section of the Gnome-Rhone airplane engine works, is in the dead center of the eastern half of France, and is the most convenient funnel for routing big rail shipments between the northern French coast and the western and southwestern stretches.

TOULON FOUNDED
France was brought under double attack yesterday, with Lightnings escorted by Fortresses from the U. S. 15th Air Force striking at Toulon naval base in the south, and medium bombers from Britain raiding northern France.

Liberators attacked Nazi airfields and railway installations near Rome, and Mitchells and Marauders bombed freight yards in Rome in the sixth Allied raid on that capital.

Le Mans is a main line rail junction between Paris and the great ports of Brest and Nantes.

More Bulgar Troops
To Fight Partisans

BERN, March 8 (AP)—Bulgaria has called up more troops following a visit by German Balkan commanders to Sofia and discovery of a large store of armaments cached by Partisans, the Basler Nachrichten reported today in a Budapest dispatch.

Strongly armed Partisan bands are establishing near Sofia, and Bulgarian troops have started a general offensive against them.

Gun Duel Rages in Cassino

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the second straight night in shell-torn Cassino on the main Fifth Army front, headquarters announced movements behind the German lines below Rome, possibly indicating

Foul weather continued to hamper the ground fighting and the communique declared that "heavy snow in the mountains and deep mud in the valleys have made all movements difficult."

Allied planes flew about 1300 sorties yesterday, with heavy bombers blasting the Toulon naval base in Southern France and medium bombers striking at rail yards in Rome. Five Nazi planes were destroyed for a loss of five Allied craft.

The escorted heavy bombers plastered shipping, docks and oil stores at Toulon, as disclosed, and also pounded rail facilities at Prato, near Florence. Medium bombers struck at the Ostiense and Littorio rail yards in Rome, and at the docks at Santo Stefano.

U. S. Delivers Arms, $1,250,000 To Arabian King

CAIRO, March 8 (AP)—A 3000-pound plane-load of rifles, ammunition and helmets has been delivered directly to King Ibn Saud at an isolated Saudi Arabian oasis as a token of larger deliveries of lend-lease war materials. U. S. Army headquarters announced today.

Maj.-Gen. Ralph Royce and Brig.-Gen. Benjamin Giles, who is relieving Royce as commander of U. S. forces in the Middle East, made the delivery Monday.

The arm delivery was preceded by a shipment to Ibn Saud of $1,250,000 in Saudi Arabian coins minted in the United States under lend-lease.

Today's Allied communique reported Sixth Army units have gained control of Los Negros Island and in the Admiralty group, have leap-frogged up the north coast of New Britain to within 170 airline miles of Rabaul and have driven up the south coast of New Britain to within 50 airline miles of Gasmata.

Covered by an air umbrella but not by naval bombardment, First Division Marines attached to Lieut.-Gen. Walter Krueger's Sixth Army swarmed ashore Monday at Williamsburg peninsula on New Britain's north coast and immediately drove toward Talasea, five miles distant, where the Japanese once had an emergency landing strip. Rifle fire was the only opposition to the landing.

The Army's 32nd Infantry who landed at Arawe on New Britain's south coast Dec. 15 launched an offensive which has carried them 24 miles up the coast toward Gasmata, once-important Japanese supply and emergency air base.

Monote airdrome, quickly-won prize of the Admiralty Islands invasion Feb. 29, has been repaired and now is ready for full-scale use by American planes, MacArthur communique.

Jaws of a trap set by U. S. infantrymen and American-trained Chinese troops are closing rapidly on enemy forces in Burma's Hukaw valley. Japan's communication lines have been severed and an enemy force isolated when the main Hukaw valley base of Maingwan fell is suffering "extremely heavy casualties," Lieut.-Gen. Stilwell communique.

In the Central Pacific, Japanese bases at Ponape and Kusaie in the eastern Caroline Islands caught a 30-ton blasting, Nauru island, southeast of Kusaie, was bombed and four unexplained attolls in the eastern Marshall Islands were hit with 35 tons of bombs.

Sick Juror Again Halts Nox on Trial

By PAULINE WARREN
Boston American Staff Writer

PITTSFIELD, March 8—The Noxon murder trial was today recessed until tomorrow because of the recurrent illness of Juror James E. Cullen, 53, who has been attended three times by physicians since last night.

While a large courtroom throng awaited throughout a conference in chambers by Judge Pinanski and counsel for both sides, three possibilities loomed.

1—If John F. Noxon, Jr., waives his constitutional rights in his trial on charges of murdering his six-months-old defective son, Lawrence, the case could be heard by a jury of 11 men.

2—A new trial.

3—A change of venue.

The crowd of eager spectators left reluctantly when Judge Pinanski emerged from the conference to announce Cullen's illness and say court would be convened again tomorrow at 10 a. m.

ILLNESS NOT DISCLOSED

The trial was delayed last week when Cullen first became sick. Last night he twice required the services of Dr. Harry H. Bard. Early this morning he was visited by Dr. Wilfred A. Millet. The nature of his illness was not made public.

The incident stayed a scheduled resumption of testimony by Dr. Alan R. Moritz, state pathologist and head of the department of legal medicine at Harvard Medical School, who yesterday began to tell of his findings after an autopsy on the Noxon's child's body.

Dr. Moritz, calm, didactical and scientific in manner, has yet to face the ordeal of cross-examination by former Gov. Joseph B. Ely, chief defense counsel, who is receiving advice on the medical aspects of the case from Dr. Milton Halpern, associate medical examiner of New York City.

King Peter Faces Showdown on Tito

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—A showdown in the relations between the Allies and Yugoslav government in exile appeared imminent today with the arrival from Cairo of two members of King Peter's cabinet to discuss the possibility of the latter's co-operation with Marshal Tito, leader of the Yugoslav Army of Liberation.

British annoyance over refusal of King Peter and Premier Boghidar Puric to co-operate with Tito, and their continued support of Gen. Draja Mihailovic is mounting, informed quarters said.

China Has Huge Increase in Prices

CHUNGKING, March 8 (AP)—Chang Ping-Chun, counselor of the executive Yuan, said today that the wholesale price index in China had risen 230 times above the prewar level and that the price of rice and coal increased 60 per cent since the end of 1943.

He told a press conference that matches were 600 times the prewar cost, cooking oil 170 and coarse cotton homespun 340 times.

Fat of Land

Baby Deserter Spared Prison

Mrs. Marion L. Di Simone, mother of 3-year-old "Donnie," who was left in a West End store, today was found guilty of abandoning the child and was given a six months' suspended sentence and probation for six months.

She told Judge Joseph Donovan she went to look for an apartment and left little Donnie in the store, intending to return for him.

"But I lost my money and I was afraid to go back, because I had no money to pay the woman for taking care of him."

"How can one have much sympathy with a mother who has abandoned her 2-year-old child?" asked Judge Donovan.

"It wasn't deliberate," answered the mother. "I lost my money and I lost my head."

Present in court, and also testifying, was her estranged husband, David DiSimone, a Rockland shoe worker who has temporary custody of the boy under supervision of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Mrs. DiSimone smiled at her husband, who had previously expressed hope of a reconciliation for the sake of the boy, but the smile left her face when DiSimone stared stolidly ahead.

Meanwhile, as "Donnie" played today in the Rockland home of his grandmother, Mrs. Matilda DiSimone, authorities of the S. P. C. C. said they would make arrangements for the proper care of the child.

Yanks' Cash Buys Little In AEF Spots

Berlin-Bound With New England's Own

By AUSTEN LAKE

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (By Air Transport)—Here is a town typical of rural England. The Elizabethan style tavern where the florid publican serves his doubtful liquors at "stated hours," faces the moss-covered Anglican church where the rude forefathers of the village sleep.

The line of houses, with hay roofs, that are cut in low-browed bangs, contrive to keep doors and windows open, although it is dead winter.

The town store, with its display of tinned herring and rationed oddments, is run by a political-minded lady named Mrs. Elvira Burns, the town matriarch who has the international situation well in hand.

The town pastor is a pleasant, muffled little man, who seems to stroll eternally through the hedgerows, hands atrophied behind his back, his black-frocked shoulders stooped, and forever saying, "Good day, sir . . . good day," but nothing more.

It is a righteous little town, where the males are either adolescent youths with a lean, elderly air, or old agrarians with wind-reddened juvenile faces. There are no men of the middle ages, except the mustard clothed Americans who have been here so long a time that the residents regard them as habitués.

There are thousands of English towns like this one—small rustic corners whose inhabitants have lived grooved lives, existed on a meager but well ordered economy, and moved in a tiny orbit that rarely passed beyond the horizon, which are the gently rolling farm fields crossed by a spider webbing of roads.

But a metamorphosis is taking place. The English children chew American gifts of gum, and speak the soldiers' lingo in their birdlike accents—to the horror of the local schoolmaster, a clerical little man who fears for British culture.

Mothers Indulgent

But the mothers are indulgent, and enjoy the occasional can of chile-con-carne mixture that the kids bring home from the soldiers' hated K-rations. The publican is broadminded, too, and does the cash-careless Yanks a thin dribble of hooch at three shillings the portion, which barely wets the bottom of the glass.

The town cobbler mends U. S. officers' boots in the musty, cluttered shop where his father and his grandfather before him mended boots, too. His eyes are dim and watery from peering in his dusty twilight, but it never occurs to him to wash his windows.

The town constable, a stone-faced, austere man, never says a word, but just stares grimly from under his blue helmet, and stands at the crossroads as though his feet are set in cement.

It is safe to say he neither approves nor disapproves of the chattering Americans with their gusty moods and extravagant speech and easy free-masonry.

He alone stands as the immutable figure of British stability, where all around him is changed.

There are no New Englanders here. I can't explain it! Usually an inquiry will evolve some suggestion like, "O Bill Toomey, the sergeant of the motor pool—he's from 'Bahst'n'."

They always accent the "Bahst'n" and grin mawkishly. So you find Toomey, and he tells WASHINGTON, March 8—The battle for enactment of the G-I Bill of Rights started in earnest today when the Senate sub-committee on veterans' legislation, headed by Sen. Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, opened a hearing on the measure.

Dewey Asks Quiz Of Gang Boss

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—New York police are under orders to bring in Frank Costello, admitted slot machine operator and former bootlegger whom Gov. Dewey has called the "gangster boss of Tammany Hall," the New York Times said today.

No specific charge has been made against Costello, the Times said.

Costello was reported to have been named in a death-house statement by Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, racketeer executed last week, as a $25,000 contributor to the campaign funds of a candidate for high public office.

British Plane Output 90,000

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—British Production Minister Oliver Lyttelton, disclosing hitherto secret figures on British war production, told Commons today Britain had produced more than 90,000 planes from the beginning of the war to the end of 1943.

British naval construction, he said, has more than replaced losses.

"Our own vast production has been supplemented by supplies of war materials of all kinds from the United States. We shall never cease to be grateful for the contribution of our American friends," Lyttelton declared.

Seltzer Wins In Brookline

Dr. Carl C. Seltzer, Harvard anthropologist, today became a new member of the Brookline school committee. He finished second in a field of four in the town election and will replace Mrs. Leta Bradburn Schick, a committee member for the last 15 years, who was defeated.

Mrs. Schick's campaign was conducted by friends. She is in Florida recuperating from an illness. Charles H. Moore and Dr. Thomas P. Kendrick were re-elected.

Absentee ballots were received from 242 of 420 members of the armed forces who requested them. Town Clerk Arthur Shimmers said they came from as far away as India. One soldier in Sicily appended a note saying, "Glad I am not forgotten."

Britain Watches Argentine Situation

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons today that the British government would continue to maintain a guarded, watchful attitude toward Argentina until the political situation there is clarified.

SAN SALVADOR, March 8 (INS)—The foreign office announced that the Salvadorean government will refrain from continuing relations with Argentina today because of conditions prevailing in that South American country.

Shortly before the omnibus bill was launched on its formal legislative career, copies of resolutions adopted by the Boston city council and demanding immediate passage of the rehabilitation program were filed with the clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives by John E. Kerrigan, council president.

SENDS MESSAGE

Himself an honorably discharged veteran of World War II, Kerrigan accompanied the resolution with a personal message, saying the people of New England want to see justice done to service men and women by adoption of the bill without delay.

Kerrigan, after consulting with the members of the Senate, predicted the measure will be passed by the upper branch of Congress before the end of the week.

Francis M. Sullivan, Legion national legislation agent, urged the public to renew its efforts in behalf of the veterans.

WARNS PUBLIC

"The public should be warned," Sullivan declared, "against letting up in its efforts or being lulled into a sense of security because a member of Congress may write a non-committal and somewhat vague letter in which he speaks kindly of the bill."

"Passage of this legislation requires the whole-hearted support of senators and congressmen."

More pledges of support for the measure came yesterday from members of Congress.

Reds Reject New Polish Terms

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—British newspapers said today Russia had rejected the latest Polish compromise offer to settle the Russo-Polish boundary dispute, but Premier Mikolajczyk declared his Polish government-in-exile had not been informed about it.

There was strong resentment in Polish circles over the reports.

It was understood here in rejecting the counterproposals the Kremlin reiterated no understanding can be reached unless certain allegedly "anti-Soviet" elements are eliminated from the exiled government, and the Curzon line is accepted as Poland's eastern boundary.

Masked Gunmen Slay Coast Cop

EMERYVILLE, Cal., March 8 (AP)—Two masked gunmen, one of whom held a sub-machine gun, killed a special patrolman, wounded one member of a crowd of 30 and escaped into nearby Oakland early today in an attempt to hold up a bar.

Patrolman George Haas, 62, died from three machine gun bullet wounds in the chest, suffered when he attempted to shoot it out with the gunmen.

Soldier Brushhoff Club Gets Brushhoff

By EDWARD KENNEDY

(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

ANZIO BEACHHEAD, March 2 (delayed) (AP)—Among letters to reach me on the Anzio beachhead is one from a young lady in Philadelphia in reply to an article by Hal Boyle on the Brushhoff Club.

A misery-loves-company organization of servicemen jilted by their sweethearts. As columnist Boyle is now on leave, the letter was turned over to me.

"Scallions to you, my misinformed friend," writes Miss X to Mr. Boyle. "After making us wade through your 'Etiquette for Girls,' how about writing one to the boys on how to treat a girl?"

"I did the brushing-off, yes, after a year and a half of faithfully attending to a soldier's wants. 'Sweet, buy my family's Christmas gifts for me.' 'Sweet, send me a subscription to my favorite morning paper; send me good new books, I've got lots of time to read.' (I work practically eight days a week at war work.)

"During the whole time his gifts to me consisted of one small Christmas gift and a stunningly magnificent air cushion received also by all members of his family. Of course, if something was urgently needed, like consolation, I received a tender long distance call—collect!"

"Once I became very hopeful at one of his letters. 'Sweet, I'm sending you a package. Look for it in a couple of days.' Oh, joyous day, I was getting a reminder! It came—a box of my old letters."

I read the letter to several soldiers here and they agreed that no soldier should treat a girl like that.

Swedish Editor Seeks Finn Peace

STOCKHOLM, March 8 (AP)—The newspaper, Aftonbladet, reported today Rickard Lindstrom, Swedish editor of Morgens Tidningen, had conferred with Russian legation officials on Finnish armistice terms and was expected to leave shortly for Helsinki.

Lindstrom's newspaper is the organ of the Social Democratic party, which has close ties with the Social Democratic party of Finland.

Britain Strives To End Coal Strike

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—Approximately one-half of the miners in the South Wales and Monmouthshire coal fields were idle today as Minister of Fuel Gwilym Lloyd George sought a solution of the wage strike at an emergency meeting of the national negotiating committee.

Walkouts yesterday raised the number of miners on strike to 40,000 from 60 pits and it was estimated that the stoppage is costing the nation 35,000 tons of coal daily.

6-Wife Cultists Seized; Call Polygamy 'No Fun'

SALT LAKE CITY, March 8—A government campaign to put an end to plural marriages today ended in the jailing of some 50 leaders and key members of the "Fundamentalists," a polygamy-practicing religious cult.

TO SUE FLIER—Swana Beaucaire, French actress, was in Reno today for the purpose, she says, of establishing residence to divorce Clyde Pangborn, famous flier.

Many of the defendants, rounded up in a series of spectacular raids in which federal, state and local police co-operated, had as many as six wives and 33 children, authorities said.

Spokesmen for the sect, protesting that the arrests were an abridgment of their "rights of freedom of religion," said the cases would be carried to the U. S. Supreme Court. An official of the Latter Day Saints Church (Mormon) said all those arrested had been excommunicated for violation of the 1890 manifesto outlawing polygamy.

CALLS IT "NO FUN"

Charges in the indictments ranged from violations of the Mann Act and the Lindbergh Kidnapping Law, to mailing obscene literature and illegal cohabitation in carrying out tenets of their polygamous religion among the sect's 2500 members.

One defendant, charged with cohabitating illegally with six different women, said "polygamy is no fun."

"Polygamy is a hard thing to live," he declared, "and any one who thinks it's fun just ought to try it."

YOUNG GIRLS INVOLVED

The indictments, which charged some defendants with duping young girls to live with them as their "mistress and concubine," climaxed a three-year investigation by Federal and State officers.

The cult, the indictments charged, operated in Utah, Idaho, Arizona, California, Colorado and Wyoming.

In a recent trial in Salt Lake City involving three members of the Fundamentalists, testimony was introduced by the defense showing that cult members believe polygamy is the "law of God."

At the trial prosecutors charged that the cultists used religion as an excuse to cloak "lewd conduct under plural marriages."

Among those indicted were Joseph White Musser, editor of a publication called "Truth," charged with mailing obscene matter and conspiring. Dr. Le-grande Woolley, Salt Lake physician; R. C. Allred, Salt Lake naturopathic physician, and Guy H. Musser, son of the editor of "Truth."

Soldier's Plea Fails Teacher

Despite the impassioned plea of an Army private that his wife be reinstated as a Boston school teacher, the Boston School Committee today stood adamant in its refusal to amend a 64-year-old ruling which forbids married women to hold permanent teaching positions.

The soldier who addressed members was Pfc. Lee Lorch, who married Grace Lonergan on Christmas Eve. His wife, a $2300-a-year teacher at the Charles H. Taylor School, Dorchester, before her marriage, was automatically dropped as a permanent teacher, although allowed to continue at the rate of $5 a day.

Pfc. Lorch, a Cornell graduate who holds a Ph.D. degree from Cincinnati University, protested the committee's action as "unfair and in complete disregard for the natural rights" of his wife.

The soldier's plea that the rule against married teachers be suspended for the duration was defeated by a 4-to-1 vote. In dissenting, Committee member Clement A. Norton said Boston remains the only city in America where "matrimony is still considered a crime."

Lunches on Time Despite Sniper

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY BEACHHEAD FORCES IN ITALY, March 7 (delayed) (AP)—Lieut. L. F. Edwards of Reigate, Surrey, is a fast man when it comes to thinking about food.

Before dawn he crawled to the crest of a hill dragging a phone with him and when daylight came relayed information that resulted in seven direct artillery hits on a big house the Germans held.

Edwards tried to get back, but was pinned down by a German sniper. At noon he was still there.

Edwards picked up his phone and ordered lunch. "The lunch, with an additional 50 feet of wire, was attached to the phone line and Edwards hauled in his lunch, maintaining communication at the same time.

Later it began to rain. When Edwards saw the sniper remove the sights from his rifle and begin to wipe them off he made a break for it and won.

Pre-Pearl Harbor Work Survey Here

Uncle Sam wants to know what people were doing immediately before the Pearl Harbor attack, and the bureau of census has selected Middlesex, Norfolk and Suffolk counties as one of the 68 areas where the survey of the nation's labor force will be conducted, it was announced today.

Edward K. Svenson, local supervisor for the census bureau in Boston, said the survey was needed to determine how many people have taken jobs since Pearl Harbor.

Man With $1335 Held For Stealing 15 Cents

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—A well dressed 65-year-old retired business man—with $1335 in his pockets when arrested—was booked today on two charges of petty larceny, specifically taking 15 cents from one newstand and attempting to snatch 25 cents from another.

Leo Davis, alias Harry and Henry Dawson, thrice before convicted on similar counts, was held for trial on April 6.

Dad Begs Return Of Lost Wings

The most prized possession of Charles De Angelis, of 177 Fuller st., Dorchester, were the gold wings he wore on his coat lapel. They were awarded him by the U. S. Navy following the death of his son, Cadet Joseph De Angelis, who was killed last September while in training at Pensacola, Fla.

But today the gold wings are lost—and De Angelis is heart sick. He lost the wings in a Washington st. store Monday. He was told that a woman had picked it up and wanted to return them, out he had left.

So won't the finder, therefore, make every effort to return this sentimental and patriotic memento to a father who cherishes those gold wings as a reminder of the son he gave to his country?

DRAFT RULING PROTESTED BY WLB

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—A War Production Board request for draft-deferment for 238 of its key men (who are also family heads) has been turned down and one board official said today the situation presented "the most serious threat to the WPB organization since the start of the war."

A rehearing will be asked today. Among those for whom deferments were denied, it was understood, were WPB Vice-Chairman J. A. Krug, in charge of production programs, and E. A. Locke, assistant to Chairman Donald M. Nelson.

WPB has 17,000 employees and the recommended deferment list of 245 was made up from 700 nominations for deferment by bureau and division heads.

Butch Leads Cops Merry Chase

Acting beyond the requirements of ordinary duty, a police rookie attached to Station 16, Back Bay, took over patrol of Boylston st. for several hours and even sought to assist the Navy.

His activities were not considered heroic by his superiors, however, and cruisers prowled the length of Boylston st. for several hours in search of the volunteer.

The rookie, known to intimates as Butch, is a German police puppy of five months' service with Station 16. He left the station before dawn and was finally found on the sixth floor of 18 Boylston st., surrounded by admiring students of the Navy radio school.

His commanding officers, happy at Butch's return, said there would be no medals for the frisky pup, nor any punishment either.

WLB Gets Surprise, Pay Decreases Asked

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The War Labor Board finds itself in charge of two-way traffic today with an application for pay decreases on its desk as pressure for higher wages continues to mount.

The decrease request comes from the L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriter Co. It involves 40 employees and concerns bonuses, or commissions, paid service supervisors.

Pope to Speak Sunday In St. Peter's Square

NEW YORK, March 8 (INS)—The Vatican radio said Pope Pius XII has cancelled next Sunday's coronation anniversary service, but he will make an address to people gathered in St. Peter's sq.

The Pope announced that he will appear Sunday afternoon to give his Apostolic Benediction.

Purple Heart For Comdr. Duffy

ALGERS, March 8 (INS)—The Order of the Purple Heart was awarded today to Lieut.-Comdr. Charles G. Duffy of Washington, for his performance during the Allied landings at the Anzio beach-head in Italy.

Comdr. Duffy is a former Boston and Washington newspaperman and was managing editor of the Washington Times-Herald.

Vice-Admiral Hewitt presented the award. Other recipients received nine gold stars in lieu of second and third Legion of Merit awards, two silver stars and seven letters of commendation.

One of the silver stars went to Lieut.-Comdr. Douglas Fairbanks, whose address was given as 11 Berkeley ave., Newport, R. I., for bravery at Salerno.

Man Beaten During Ford Plant Strike

DETROIT, March 8 (AP)—A Ford Motor Co. spokesman reported today a plant protection man was kick and beaten in fighting which, he said, followed discharge of a worker for striking a foreman in the Rouge plant aircraft building, and suspension of two men for smoking on the assembly line.

At the same time more than 2000 employees in the production foundry of the Rouge plant, members of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO), returned to work today after a one-day walkout in a dispute over production rates.

GOP VICTORY FORECAST IN INDIANA

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

INDIANAPOLIS, March 8 (INS)—The Republicans hold a substantial lead in Indiana today, which leaders expect will carry over into November's presidential election, but the Democrats are hopeful that 288,041 new industrial voters will reverse the 1940 verdict.

President Roosevelt lost the State four years ago by 25,000. The Democrats believe his war record and the new voters will put Indiana in Roosevelt's column.

One phenomenal change is the collapse of Republican party sentiment for Wendell Willkie.

The "forgotten man" of Indiana politics, however, is War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt. Democratic favorite son candidate in 1940. This year there doesn't even appear to be room on the Indiana delegation for McNutt.

The new "big man" among Indiana Democrats is Gov. Henry F. Schricker, who was elected in 1940 while the State voted against Roosevelt.

Long Island Party To Be Given by Elks

Beston Lodge of Elks No. 10 will hold the last in a series of parties for the benefit of inmates at Long Island Hospital at the Elks Home, 177 Huntington ave., Friday night. A penny sale and entertainment are features on the program.

Mrs. Bee Turner and Joseph L. Murphy, past exalted ruler, are co-chairmen of the large committee in charge of the event.

Ely Backers Enter Race in 7 Districts

Contests for delegates to the Democratic national convention in seven of the state's 14 congressional districts were assured today with states entered for anti-fourth term Democrats pledged to former Gov. Joseph B. Ely.

The Ely-pledged candidates will oppose the unpledged slate filed by the Democratic state committee. In addition, in Boston's District 11, a third slate was entered by Daniel H. Coakley, a former Governor's Councilor. Originally announced as pledged to Roosevelt, the Coakley candidates will run as independents because they have no permission from the President to run in his name.

Despite the Ely opposition, Chairman William H. Burke, Jr., of the Democratic state committee, expressed confidence today that the unpledged candidates would win every seat.

On the Republican side, delegate papers of Alonzo B. Cook, former state auditor, were ruled out for lack of six papers, and two candidates pledged to Willkie were informed they would have to run as individuals for failing to secure Willkie's consent to use of his name in the presidential primaries on April 25.

Beverly Mayor Out For Lieut.-Governor

BEVERLY, March 8—Mayor Daniel E. McLean today became the third avowed candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor.

He announced his candidacy for the post already sought by Jarvis Hunt of North Attleboro, president of the State Senate, and Rudolph King of Millis, speaker of the State House of Representatives.

Manila Atrocities Told; Red Cross Fund Piles Up

Japanese atrocity stories recently published in the American press were "understatements," Dr. Hugh L. Robinson, medical missionary who was interned in Manila, declared today.

In an address prepared for the noon report luncheon of the Red Cross War Fund drive at the City Club, the Newton physician revealed that he had learned authoritatively, from a Filipino chaplain, that 22,000 prisoners died in two months at one prison camp alone.

Describing his 22 months at a Manila camp, Dr. Robinson said 70 Red Cross-recruited nurses captured at Corregidor did "yeoman work" among the sick prisoners, although many of the nurses were ill themselves.

"Those nurses were wonderful," the repatriated physician said. "Before they were transferred to our camp, they had been on half rations for four and a half months, some had dysentery, others had malaria—but they immediately took over the work of organizing and operating our camp hospital."

For the first six months of the internment camp's history, Dr. Robinson reported, all the prisoners were fed by the American Red Cross. He mentioned in particular quantities of powdered milk which the Red Cross had stored, thus enabling children to obtain adequate nourishment.

Dr. Robinson returned to America on the exchange ship Gripsholm and is devoting much of his time to helping put the Red Cross War Fund over the top.

Dem. War Hero Fails To Check GOP Swing

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—A Republican businessmen's victory over a war hero opponent in a special Colorado congressional election apparently demonstrated today that the Democrats must find something more than a candidate with a military background to stem an otherwise adverse voting tide.

Dean M. Gillespie, Republican, defeated Democrat Maj. Carl E. Wuertele, wounded and decorated Pacific flier, by 3000 votes in a contest to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Rep. Lawrence Lewis, Democrat, in the First Colorado District.

Gillespie will be the first Republican Congressman from Denver since 1932.

Gillespie's victory in a normally Democratic district raised Republican representation in the House to 210 members, only six short of the Democrats' 216, and demonstrated to most politicians that the 1942 Republican swing still is continuing.

Wuertele, a political novice, hardly mentioned politics in his campaign, but mainly discussed his war experiences.

Gillespie attacked the Administration on the home front, accusing the Democrats of bungling, creating unnecessary bureaus and of extravagant expenditure of money for other than war purposes.

Republican leaders here looked on Gillespie's election as validating their contention that the elections may turn on domestic rather than war issues.

MUSIC IN INDUSTRY

NO. 4

Post-War Industry will use Music

The pressure of war-time production schedules brought about the general adoption of industrial music. But its efficiency in lessening worker fatigue, reducing rejections and improving morale insures music a permanent place in the future plans of American industry.

A great deal has been done ... and much remains to be done ... in determining just "what to play" and "when to play it." We, a large group of the composers of America, are keenly interested. Through our association, ASCAP, we have assembled a great amount of carefully prepared and scientifically treated factual information on the subject.

Any of this material is available, as an ASCAP service, to any manufacturer, with-out cost.

Hub Man Saves Cat On Ship Cut in Half

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, March 8 (AP)—Rescued after clinging 33 hours to the after section of a torpedo-sundered ship in an Atlantic blizzard, 61 Allied seamen have been brought to this port aboard a rescue vessel.

All crew members were saved. The sailors recounted how their vessel broke cleanly in halves two minutes after the torpedo hit. The forward half, with no men aboard, was whisked away by the high seas.

After pitching about on the raging seas for one and one-half days on the section of ship, the seamen were rescued.

Hero of the experience, according to Ab. O. G. Haggert of Harbor Beach, Mich., one of the survivors, was 21-year-old Charlie Cleverman of Boston, the vessel's "utility boy."

Charlie was one of the first to get off," said Haggert. "He was a plucky kid, he jumped from the side of the ship onto a tossing raft. It was tougher for Charlie because he had a German and Italian revolver he had picked up in Naples stuffed in his pockets and was holding the ship's cat, Blackout, in a pillow slip.

"I told him to give up the cat before he jumped, but he wouldn't. The raft was tossing below him a 25 or 30-foot sea, but he made it, cat and all."

Maryknoll Vows Taken by Seven

Seven Massachusetts young women participated in the double ceremony of Reception and Profession today at Maryknoll Sisters' Motherhouse, Maryknoll, N. Y., and received the Maryknoll habit.

They were given religious names and will enter upon a two-year training period, preliminary to the taking of religious vows.

They are:

Sister Mary Fidelia, formerly Mary Reagan, daughter of the late James J. and Julia G. Reagan of Dorchester, and sister of Mrs. John D. Devir, South Boston.

Sister Mary Anne Coleman, formerly Josephine McDonough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman A. McDonough, Dorchester.

Sister M. Ellen David, formerly Eileen Keane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Keane, Lynn.

Sister M. Catherine Cecilia, formerly Cecilia LeBlanc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. LeBlanc, Roxbury.

Sister Maria Gracia, formerly Mary Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie J. Heath, Somerville.

Sister Maria Tomas, formerly Mary Dooling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dooling, Fitchburg.

Those who made their first religious vows today, any.

Sister M. Claire Thersse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Murphy, Cambridge, and Sister Regina Cordis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Donahue, Woburn.

Cleared on 'Clip' Charge
Mrs. Mary Bartlett, of Harrison ave., Roxbury, was cleared of a charge of fleecing a sailor of $20 today, after Judge Charles H. Carr cited her "perfect record of 15 years as a waitress."

Fall River Man Cited

Philip W. Hashim, 23, radioman 3/4, USNR, of Harrison st., Fall River, has been commended by the Chief of Naval Personnel for courage displayed while serving in a Navy armed guard unit which blasted four enemy planes from the air, First Naval District headquarters announced today.

Hub Oratory Finals Slated for March 31

Entrants from Boston high schools and colleges who finish among the top winners in the John Paul Jones nationwide oratorical contest, sponsored by the Hearst newspapers, will represent the city in the Eastern Zone finals which will be held in New York city on Thursday, April 13.

Eliminations which will be held in Faneuil Hall on March 31 will cull out Boston's representatives to the Eastern Zone finals—one week after the deadline for submitting entries in the contest.

Then, successful entrants from Boston, Baltimore, Albany and New York will compete in the Eastern Zone finals and the top winners will move on to the national finals, also to be held in New York on Tuesday, April 18.

DEADLINE NEARS

The time of the elimination competition is close at hand and the contest editor suggests that entrants get busy today on their research into the background of John Paul Jones and the historical events that made him America's outstanding Revolutionary naval hero. Reference books are available in Boston public and school libraries.

Contestants should keep in mind the primary rules of the contest: the oration must be original and be made without reference to notes; it must not exceed six minutes and the general subject is "John Paul Jones, American."

Colleges already entered in the contest include Boston College, Boston University, Tufts, Jackson and Simmons.

ACCLAIM CONTEST

Endorsements are pouring in from all parts of the country and the latest to acclaim the contest is Gov. Dwight H. Green, of Illinois. He said:

"John Paul Jones founded the finest tradition of the United States Navy. His dauntless gallantry inspires each succeeding generation of our fighting seamen; his example is worth more to our public than a fleet of ships of the line."

"I am glad to know that the Chicago Herald and American is conducting a nationwide high school and college contest of oration on John Paul Jones. The choice of this hero as a subject is a happy one. We need more of this sort of thing in these times. I hope the interest and response will surpass even that of last year's successful oratorical contest."

Army Students' Test March 15

Qualifying tests for admission to the Army specialized training reserve program will be held March 15 for 17-year-old youths in virtually every New England high school, prep school and college, the First Service Command announced today.

The purpose, it was stated, is to replace some of the men recently returned to active duty after AST education. Successful candidates will be assured at least six months of college training, possibly nine. Studies will include applied sciences, chemical and biological sciences, mathematics and physics. A limited number of students will study foreign languages. Taking the test does not obligate a student to enter the program, nor does it constitute enlistment.

Question

about Wartime Telephone Service Restrictions

"CAN PEOPLE STILL GET TELEPHONE SERVICE?"

Answer:

Some people can immediately, others will have to wait . . . depending upon circumstances. If the service they request is essential to defense or to public health, welfare or security, it is installed at once in all cases. If the service is not essential to such matters, because of shortage of facilities it must wait for facilities to become available.

When possible to proceed with orders on the waiting list they are completed on a "first come, first served" basis. The waiting period for any applicant may be short or long, according to circumstances, and it varies even within the same exchange.

Japs Open Atrocity Drive Against U. S.

By KINGSBURY SMITH

WASHINGTON, March 8 (INS)—Japan has launched a full-scale atrocity campaign against the United States. A survey of Japanese home radio broadcasts revealed today that Japan is now accusing American fighting men in the Pacific of almost every type of cruelty charge lodged against Tokyo's army by the United States government.

American authorities also are accused of inhuman treatment of Japanese civilian internees in this country.

The intense hatred-breeding nature of the atrocity campaign has aroused fear in some authoritative Washington quarters that it may lead to further mistreatment of American prisoners of war and civilian internees still held by the Japanese.

The current Japanese propaganda attacks on alleged American brutality are similar to those which preceded and accompanied the outrages committed in the Philippines, at Hong Kong, and on the captured "Doolittle" Tokyo raiders.

This atrocity campaign appears to be Japan's reply to the official American revelations of Japanese murder, starvation and torture of United States war prisoners and civilian internees.

Great Britain also is receiving a share of the abuse in apparent retaliation for the British disclosure of the barbaric treatment of their nationals by the Japanese.

The Japanese people also are being told that the official policy of the American government is to kill every Japanese. President Roosevelt was quoted as saying in his Christmas broadcast the United States must "wipe Japan from the face of the earth completely."

2 INS Planes Lead Admiralty Attack

AN ADVANCED U. S. AIR BASE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 8 (INS)—International News Service entered the Pacific war, lock, stock and barrel, at the Admiralty today.

The lead plane in the lead element of a new aerial attack was "The Pride of INS," and the lead ship of the second element was "Barry's Baby"—INS—two of the best, sleekest and meanest-looking Havoc bombers you ever saw.

Kids out here had read an article in Newsweek Magazine about International News Service and decided Barry Faris, editor of the first news outfit that had given Pacific attack bombers the break they deserve, ought to be represented—hence, "Barry's Baby."

Capt. Kenneth Rosebush of Iola, Kan., and Alfred Baucom of Fayetteville, N. C., handled the "Pride," while Lieut. Harold Prince of Venice, Cal., gunned "Barry's Baby."

Both ships were christened last night.

You Never Ate A Better RAISIN PIE

WAS IT KIPLING WHO WROTE about aromas, saying that they "are surer than sounds" or sight to make your heart-strings crack" ... ?

• Whoever it was, I thought of the quotation this morning as I strolled through one of the floors of our big downtown Boston bakery. A delightful spicy smell filled the air. The doors of a whole battery of our rotary ovens were open, and the attendants were busily taking from those deep caverns hundreds upon hundreds of hissing and bubbling raisin pies, every one done to a glorious golden brown.

• And my thoughts went back to my mother's kitchen on Saturday mornings, many years ago. There was a large family of us, and well can I remember how we boys used to hover around the big black stove and watch her taking the pies from the oven, hoping against hope that she would relent and cut one on the spot. For, like most boys, we were always ravenous and raisin pie was our favorite.

• These Waldorf raisin pies make me think of those childhood days. More particularly, perhaps, because the recipe we use is almost identical with my mother's. A better pie you never could find!

SERVING MORE THAN A MILLION MEALS A WEEK!

Newsweek published a lengthy article about International News Service and its editor on the occasion of the latter's return from a 30,000-mile swing throughout the Pacific war areas, during which he met and interviewed scores of American airmen.

A series of articles written by Faris paid tribute to the work of attack bombers under command of Lieut.-Gen. Kenney.

Newsweek headlined its own article "Barry's Baby" in recognition of his 25 years as guiding head of International News Service.

New Rocket Guns On Dutch Coast

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—A sally by light British naval forces close to the coast of Holland has disclosed that anti-invasion defenses along the German Atlantic wall now include short-range rocket guns and automatic cannon for pointblank fire against assault craft.

The foray was revealed in a communique which said naval units had drawn sharp fire from the new defense weapons at IJmuiden harbor, where they attacked 14 enemy armed trawlers, setting three afire and blew up a supply ship.

the U. S. Provost Marshall of the area on canned frankfurters, Brussels sprouts and a yellow, mystery pudding, while he chats wistfully of the days when he was a "leg-man" for the "N'oleans Picayune."

No, he says, his M. P.'s don't make many pinches—an occasional rumprum at the tavern, or a speeding jeep, and once in awhile a man who goes "over the hill" in a fit of frustration.

Nobody gets their "ears whacked down" while he is the MP—because he isn't a cop by choice. And anyway, the policy of the military police is to help an errand kid instead of punishing him.

Down the road, as the cow wanders—for roads here are seldom straight, but meander in goose-necks and fishhooks—there is a nest of Nissen igloos, where I manage to flush up a small covey of New Englanders—men such as Corp. Everett W. Linscott of 36 Linscott rd., Hingham—a street named after his grandfather's big farm.

He is another United-Carr-Fastener worker, under Ted Lincoln, and who married Leona (Wayens) on Christmas Day of '41. He, too, has a baby boy, one year old, whom he has never seen, a circumstance that is usual among these young soldier husbands.

And Sgt. John F. Marston of 45 Westmoreland st., Dorchester, who used to drive for David M. Briggs, contractor, and hang out with a "bunch of the guys" at Jack O'Neal's gas station.

(He recently spent five days furlough as guest at an English home in Southampton—a fact that is fairly common between these social-minded U. S. kids, and their English country neighbors. It's the bigger towns where the twin fail to make spiritual union).

Roxbury Radioman

And Pfc. Richard J. Powers of 9 Rockdale st., Roxbury, a radioman, whose brother, Lieut. Bill, is in the Air Corps, and whose thoughts go back to Ed Dooley's Costello's Cafe where he once lingered with pals like Bill Duffey. And Pfc. Robert Givner of 42 Bellevue st., Dorchester, who worked for United Drive of Leland st., played amateur ball with Wilmer Reading's Pirates and wishes he could teach the company mess sergeant how his mother, Mrs. Mary, cooks her roast beef, rare and tender.

And 1st Lieut. Thomas M. Gaffney of 185 Maple st., Danvers, who majored in economics at Harvard ('41), belonged to St. Paul's Catholic Club and complains the forces don't get enough home news. (He thinks, "on the whole," the U. S. people are doing a good job.)

And Warrant Officer Frank Lovell of 55 Bayview ave., Quincy, who worked in Bill Joyce's Quincy P. O. and used to take part in Fr. Peter F. Hart's Blessed Sacrament sport programs.

And Pvt. Raymond W. Charron of 326 Chestnut st., North Attleboro, who took care of Sam Rustin's estate. And Pfc. Henry W. Shinkoski of 30 Superior rd., Worcester, a former "side lasting" operator for Kleivins-Spencer Shoe Co. who married Theresa (Di Liddo) and also has a nine-months-old infant, Elaine, whom he has never seen.

And Capt. Philip P. Thivierge of 2 Summit ter., Malden, a chemist who used to study at M. I. T. nights and work for Potter Drug and Chemical. (He wants to know "What's the lowdown on Prohibition?"—a universal question among these war exiles. Man and boy, with one voice. They don't want anything "put over on them" in absentia.)

U. S. Strikes Pet Hates

And Sgt. John W. Shea of 77 Orchard st., Taunton, who worked for Taunton Coating Mills, Inc., and married Mary Rose Shea on Aug. 15, 1942, and says "strikes in war industry are every soldier's pet hate."

And Pfc. Charles N. McDermott of 20 Elizabeth st., Attleboro, who studied piano under Alfredo DeVoto at the N. E. Conservatory, and is now a cannoneer. And who worked for Burton R. Smith Corp. Francis Frigon of Spencer, at the Spencer Gas.

And Corp. Fred L. Murray of Butters row, Wilmington, who worked for Becker's Transfer Co., Cambridge, and finds "much about the English surroundings that reminds him of home, only no snow."

The English never cease to be astounded at American spend-thrift habits. The British think the boys have no money sense. Its the universal complaint—"why they throw money around like confetti." Actually that is not so! The percentage of soldiers who send the bulk of their pay home in allotments is large. There isn't much to buy in the rural regions with what is left, so it accumulates—until furlough time! Then it goes in swift, short spurges. But many a British shopkeeper helps by boosting prices, thereby helping to create a condition which is the boys' loudest lament.

Veterans' Friend

Q—I was discharged from the Army three months ago. Since then I have kept up service insurance premiums. A few days ago I received form No. 353—application for insurance reinstatement. Do I have to fill it out?
B. J., Fall River.

A—Veterans Bureau (Insurance Branch) says it is not necessary as long as you have continued payments. Be sure and keep receipts. It is advisable, however, to write Administrator of Veterans Affairs, Veterans Administration, Washington, D. C., informing him you have continued payments and also return form.

Q—I am 43, served three months in the Army and last March received discharge to accept defense plant employment. Do I receive mustering out pay under discharge marked W. D. A. A. G. O. No. 55?
A. V. S., Malden

A—No. The discharge marking that you write about is only the form number of Honorable Discharge. On the reverse side under "Reason of Discharge" you will find your discharge was according to War Dept. Circular No. 39 X 615-530.

Q—Have been in World War I and II. Served overseas in this war. Have put in request for discharge on over-age and dependency. If I receive discharge am I entitled to mustering-out pay?
P. J. C., Camp Edwards.

A—Men discharged because of dependency are entitled to mustering-out pay under a revised ruling of the War Department. However, due to your overseas duty you would be entitled to $300 regardless of reason of discharge, providing of course, it was honorable.

(All letters addressed to Veterans' Friend, Boston Record-American, will be answered in this column unless an answer is desired by mail, in which case enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.)

A Deadly Narcotic

A COMPLAINT has been made that a New York narcotic ring promoted sales of marihuana to Boston high school students.

According to the police department, mothers of two young men found cigarettes containing the dangerous drug in their sons' pockets.

It would be hard to find a greater reason for anger and indignation on the part of parents or a more potent challenge to police efficiency.

Marihuana is the SURE ROAD to ruin for young people. It is a poison quite as deadly as potassium cyanide and other better known drugs which no sane person would think of consuming.

The campaign against the pedlars of marihuana must not stop until the last one is securely locked behind bars for as long as the law permits.

The police department should also make certain that the narcotic ring is not preying on soldiers and sailors as well as on high school students.

The Serviceman's Right

THE New Jersey State Senate has approved legislation permitting men of the armed forces serving outside the United States to marry their American sweethearts in the absentee manner.

The measure authorizes a young woman to obtain marriage applications from her local bureau of vital statistics.

After the young woman and her husband-to-be have filled out the papers and returned them to the proper officials, the customary wedding license will be issued.

A man over eighteen years of age is designated as a proxy and the ceremony is then performed with tulle, rings, flowers, cake and guests.

This concession will be appreciated by hundreds of soldiers and sailors who may not return home for two or three years.

But it will never be appreciated so much as the willingness of New Jersey and all other States to permit young servicemen of eighteen, nineteen and twenty years of age to participate in elections.

Simple justice demands that they have a voice in the selection and conduct of that government.

No Governor or law-maker has a right to tell these young men:

"You may die for liberty but we will not grant you the liberty of voting."

Attention, Mr. Durling!

MAX HOEFER, president of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' Association, has stated that 25 per cent of the women of America "do something" to change the color of their hair.

"The younger element wants glamour," he informed the press recently. "Very few are satisfied with what they have, and they go for gold blonde and light titian shades."

"The gray-haired woman who alters her hair usually dyes it to approximate its original shade. Seventy-five per cent of the gray-haired women in business dye their hair, while women in homes are more apt to let their locks change to white."

We cannot think of anything quite so terrifying as being called upon to conduct a census of hair dyers. We can easily predict what the response would be when we stopped the first woman we met in the street and politely inquired:

"Do you tint, rinse or bleach your lovely tresses?"

Perhaps we should offer Mr. Hoefler's findings to Columnist E. V. Durling, whose comments appear daily on this page.

Durling is on record as saying that there is only one real red head in Hollywood, though he prudently declines to name her.

Take a Pill and Grow

HARDLY a day passes without somebody's disclosing a new post-war marvel.

At this writing the latest is a wonder substance calculated to develop undersized people into individuals of normal stature and weight.

The substance, a protein, was isolated a few weeks ago in California by Drs. Chao-Hao-Li and Herbert M. Evans.

Scientists who have studied its effects on laboratory animals say it has tremendous possibilities.

Too bad we haven't a sufficient quantity of it to go around now.

Think how useful it would be to the 4-F's who sincerely want to reach the minimum five-foot Army height minimum.

And how valuable it might prove to the little soldier who quakes at the sight of those giant M.P.'s in railroad stations and such places.

Still it might have certain disadvantages, too.

Imagine the dumb-founded amazement of a pint-sized husband who kissed his tiny, four-foot-ten wife goodbye in the morning and came home at night to find her transformed into a six-foot-two Amazon!

A courage to endure and obey:
A hate of gossip of parlance and of envy.

Crowned Isabel through all her placid life,
The queen of marriage, a most perfect wife.

—TENNYSON.

PLEASE NOTE Mr. Tennyson names obedience as a wifely virtue. In his day about 85 per cent of women obeyed their husbands. According to recent research, only about 35 per cent of modern women take the "obey" part of the marriage ceremony seriously. Other poets writing of their idea of a perfect wife were Stevenson who said: "Teacher, tender comrade, wife, a fellow-traveler true through life." Nicholas Rowe: "The partner of my soul, my wife, the kindest, truest, dearest that ever wore the name." Samuel Rogers: "My wife, pleasures doubling and cares dividing."

IN ENGLAND the most clothes conscious and best dressed member of the family is usually the husband. Therefore, it is not surprising to learn a British government official has thanked the women for accepting wartime clothes regulations in more reasonable fashion than their husbands. It is now practically impossible for an average Englishwoman to get a decent looking hat. Yet despite the importance the fair sex places on a hat, the women of England did not complain as much about the situation as the Englishmen did because they couldn't have cuffs on their trousers and were asked to get along with fewer pockets.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:

Q—What's the idea of actresses and entertainers using only one name? For example, Hildegard and Annabella? A—Can't say for certain. I think it is to give the actress a bit of a foreign touch. You know, like a singer calling herself a chanteuse. Q—Weren't you born in Brooklyn? A—I was born in New York City. Brought up in Brooklyn and went to school and college in New England. Q—What is the national sport of England, football or cricket? A—Some authorities say cricket is the British national sport, others say horse racing. Cricket is a good game. I played it when I was a kid. Q—To decide a little argument in our outfit, what is the largest bank in the United States. I claim it is the Bank of America, San Francisco. A—You lose.

"He's training to be a bombardier."

Largest is the Chase National; second, National City Bank, New York, and third, Bank of America, San Francisco.

SIDELIGHTS: One of this war's most horrible acts was putting time bombs in oranges shipped from Spain to England. After several oranges of a shipment of 15,000,000 had exploded, it took a very brave person to handle an orange. It will be some time before the British forget this mean trick. . . . Who is the highest ranking former film star in the armed forces of the United Nations? It is none other than Ben Lyon who is a lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Army Air Force. . . . Is characteristic of the average American the tougher the spot the calmer he becomes. Danger does not increase his excitement or disturb his balance. The British have the same characteristic, the possession of which makes a man very dangerous. In a tight spot, especially when his plans go wrong, a German becomes irritated, a Jap becomes hysterical and an Italian excited.

WRITES A CALIFORNIAN: "I find your handling of the matrimonial situation from a husband's angle somewhat spineless. You cater to the feminine subscribers. A friend of mine depending on your advice to help tame a shrew has to go back to reading Shakespeare for suggestions. . . . I have a nice wife, but a home girl type who never earned a dime and is ignorant of the hardships of the business world. She thinks while she is having a hard time doing the housework and keeping the children in line I am having a wonderful day out in the great big beautiful world. Fact is, things are so hectic in my line that when I come home I am so tired I can hardly stand up. But my wife, a regular reader of your department, expects me to do a hop, skip and jump up the steps and throw my arms around her. She believes I should say: 'Honey, you have had a hard day. Let's go to a night club as we did on our honeymoon.' In brief, she thinks I am not romantic. Listen, you big dumb pipe down on that sentimental angle for the duration, will you. Say something about the difficult life of a hard working husband once in a while."

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Know a farmer? Ask him what he thinks of a cow that produces 1500 gallons of milk a year and supplies 100 people with their daily milk ration. There is such a cow in Hampshire, England. I worked on a farm for 19 days one time but couldn't learn to milk a cow. . . . So you're a Biblical expert. All right, who is the only woman whose age is recorded in the Old Testament? . . . When you hear a woman say "men like this" or "men always do that," or any way speak of men being all alike you can rest assured she never has had much experience with the male sex.

BRIEFLY: Know a mother who calls her children with a police whistle. She says it preserves her vocal chords and seems to carry more of a note of authority than her voice. . . . "As for longevity of men who smoke," writes a Chicagoan, "my grandfather has a cousin in Tucson, Ariz; who is 104 years old and who has been a steady smoker since a boy. He also likes a bottle of beer daily and an occasional nip of something stronger."

ASIDES: Ever hear of a coal bootlegger? Neither did I until recently. Now learn there are many such bootleggers in Pennsylvania. They dig coal on other people's property and sell it in a black market. . . . A man married a blonde, but preparing to discard her for a brunette, says the possession of blonde hair has a great effect on a woman's character. He claims so much is said and written about blondes this type of woman become arrogant, conceited, excessively independent, flirtatious and demands much more from a husband than she has to give.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 8—Just heard that Ruth Gordon's sprightly comedy, "Over Twenty-One," has been bought for Irene Dunne. As you may have guessed, Columbia paid a pretty price for the privilege of filming Ruth's play, which is playing nightly to a packed house on Broadway.

There is a touch of Hollywood in this war-time comedy, which is as timely as your morning newspaper. Irene told me she hadn't read nor seen the play but had been told Columbia bought it. I suggest she go to New York and see it. On the other hand, her own conception of the war-time bride might even be better. Irene is one of the screen's most capable comedienne.

eric Remington for PCA. Harry Joe admitted it was true, and he is enthused about this yarn, which is the history of America's most colorful cowboy-artist. Joel McCrea has already been approached about playing Remington, the New York tenderfoot who came West in 1880 and became our greatest painter of Western scenes.

IRENE DUNNE

have never known a girl to want a baby so much. I don't think she could have borne it if she hadn't had a child."

COLUMBIA HAS bought for an estimated $100,000 the rights to Elita Shiber's best-selling "Paris Underground." The book, according to actual figures, reached a figure of 461,000 last month. So by now it should be even closer to the half million figure, at a conservative estimate. The deal, surprisingly enough, was made through Playwright Joseph Fields, who took an option on the book with the idea of producing it as a play on Broadway. Columbia took over the Fields option.

MARLENE DIETRICH's son-in-law, Dean Goodman, goes into a stock company at San Jose with Betty Compton and other Hollywood personalities. "I am determined," writes young Goodman, "to carve a career for myself, both as a writer and as an actor, without benefit of the Dietrich son-in-law publicity. The few offers I have had in film have come because of that and my pride resents it. I suppose now the separation rumors concerning myself and my wife, Maria Manton, will circulate with even greater vengeance. Maria told me she had talked to you and denied there was a rift between us. I wish to reiterate that denial. We have been kept apart by our work and have our misunderstandings, but the thought of divorce is in neither of our heads at this time."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Mrs. Freddie Peters, wife of Carol Lombard's brother, is in Las Vegas for the usual reason: John Payne has been in the hospital in Denver because of old wounds. There is talk he may be discharged from the Army. Mrs. Spike Jones is also in Las Vegas, but she hasn't made up her mind; John Leroy Johnson, veteran publicity man and one of the best liked men in town, joins Republic today. Herbert Yates has named him national director of publicity: Helen Forrest, once a singer in Harry James' band, is expected to do an altar march in April with Eddie Hall; Greer Garson Sunday night and Irene Dunne Monday night gave the service men at Hollywood Canteen a real thrill; Alex D'Arcy has bought U-Gene's and will reopen it as a dinner place; Dr. Peter Lindstrom, Ingrid Bergman's husband, is completing his work here at General Hospital. Ingrid has been quite sick with Mrs. Gardner in on her way East to meet Reggie, who arrives from overseas; Honey and Dick Berlin, Harry Crocker, Dorothy Draper, famed interior decorator and writer on Good Housekeeping, Gladys and Clarence Lindner of the San Francisco Examiner, were cocktail guests of Mrs. Diana Fitzmaurice. Dorothy Draper is photographing five and six-room Hollywood houses.

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

MIAAMI, Fla., Tuesday—At 11 o'clock Sunday morning we left Palm Beach for Miami. We drove to the Coral Gables Hospital, which is an Air Force hospital, and had lunch with the men at their mess. The familiar pressed-out tin trays were before us. I could almost see the line at one of the mess halls in the Southwest Pacific, for I have not often eaten of similar trays since then. The food was good and the men seemed to enjoy it.

THERE ARE SOME remarkable cases which make you marvel at the skill of the surgeons and the extraordinary new scientific discoveries which have made such cures possible.

While at Palm Beach, we stopped at the Victory canteen which is run by Mrs. Rea. It was crowded with men writing letters, reading and eating. There were some British boys and one from Santo Domingo. Later in the day, when we visited the recreation pier in Miami, which I had seen two years ago, we found many different nationalities represented. The people seemed to have a happy time together.

IN THE MIDDLE of the afternoon we stopped at the USO for colored servicemen. Not many of them come to this city but they have taken a tremendous amount of interest and have a very fine place for men from ships or from shore stations who come in.

At six o'clock we reached my son Franklin's house, and met some of his friends, including Capt. and Mrs. McDaniels. Capt. McDaniels is the head of the Destroyer Escort Training School. We had made a hurried trip to the school late in the afternoon. Copyright, 1944, United Feature Synd., Inc.

'Follow the Girls' Smash Hit 'Riding High' 'Chicken' Due

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Follow the Girls," Dave Wolper's salty new musical which opened to a $33,000 advance sale last night at the Shubert, is as subtle in its humor as the starring Gertrude Neisen's sassy chassis.

The show is gaudy, bold, corny, but it has a lot of brazen vitality and Miss Neisen and a comical guy named Gleason and five'll get you ten that it will be a Broadway smash-hit. Yes, you're right, Boston is a pushover for a musical, any musical, and many a musical walkaway here has folded inside a week in America's first city.

But they didn't have a Neisen or a Gleason. When G. Neisen and/or Jackie Gleason are on stage even the corn goes down good and it's plain as a barndoor that they'll make it as popular as beefsteak on the gayer-than-ever White Way.

Buster West, who's hardly a newcomer to this or any other stage between the A. and P. oceans, is here again with another merryandrew, Tim Herbert, and their cavorting had rib-wracking results. They are a very funny team, these sailor-suited lads.

Dorothy Keller, a cute trick with a Mitzi Mayfair quality, danced her way into the audience's favor last night, and so did Val Valentino, looking more like a fugitive from an All-American team than a ballet dancer.

Still another ballet star, Irina Baronova, who has quit ballet for the stage, surprised with her charm and what Walter Catlett laughingly calls stage "perse." She is enchanting and alone and with Valentino did some foot and toe work that delighted us.

Geraldine Stroock, of the well-known New York Stroocks, stepped into her first professional stage role on any last night as Catherine Pepburn, who'd be you-know-who. Until last night, it was just a parlor trick but it looks like from now on little Miss Stroock can make like Katie for her supper.

The book, by Guy Bolton and Eddie Davis, has lifted plenty from Joe Miller's mildewed brainchild. Its comedy is more loose than literate in its breezy lowdown on the Navy way ashore. The title song as sung by Miss Neisen, was the hit number in a score that is hardly a standout one.

Gertie, in her burlesque impersonating, also scored with "Strip Flips Hip" in the first act, a number that has a strong Bizerte flavor.

The costumes, designed by Lou Eisele and with Mary Grant sitting in on the color schemes, are more garish than glamorous, which, after all, is the keynote of this sassy, flirty, sometimes dirty show.

'Riding High' At Uptown

"Riding High," Paramount's Technicolor musical, starring Dorothy Lamour, Dick Powell and Victor Moore, is now showing on the Uptown screen, as is "Where Are My Children?" the Jackie Cooper-Gale Storm co-starrer dealing with the juvenile delinquency problem.

Warners' sub thriller, "Destination Tokyo," teaming Cary Grant and John Garfield, is currently on the Washington St. Olympia and Scollay screens, where "Henry Aldrich, Boy Scout" is the second feature.

'Chicken' Due At Plymouth

Julius J. and Philip G. Epstein, who have dramatized "Chicken Every Sunday," the Rosemary Taylor best-seller, which comes to the Plymouth Theater on Monday, March 20, have just been awarded an "Oscar" by the Motion Picture Academy for their screen play, "Casablanca."

Edward Gross, producer of "Chicken Every Sunday," invited the Epsteins to his Beverly Hills home for what they thought was to be a party. Instead, he gave them a copy of the book and insisted they read it that evening. Before midnight, the brothers decided they'd like to do the dramatization, signed a contract.

Beauty Lip Glamour--Brushed On!

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

AN EXCITING NEW MODE in beauty is the lip brush . . . to paint your mouth into picturesque, provocative appeal. That's the way the Hollywood glamour gals do it . . . That's the way the eye-filling beauties on the magazine covers do it.

That's the way we stay-at-home gals . . . desirous of being distinctive in our own little way—in our own little sphere . . . should do it . . . to achieve not only ravishing color for our lips . . . but the seductive perfection of mouth outline for that kissable cupid-bow . . .

The lip brush is a beauty trick of extraordinary potentialities . . . giving us gals a whole of a chance to do with our lips as we see fit . . . to meet our moods . . . to enhance our personality of the moment . . . to self-express the modern way.

ADVANCE YOUR EDUCATION

'Member as a child how you loved to paint with a brush . . . coloring everything in sight . . . and mamma encouraged it as part of your progressive education and mental growth . . . taking great delight in the doodlings of your fertile childish imaginations?

The glamour experts have gone Mamama one better . . . and glorified that impulse . . . into something of personal benefit and value to your individual intensification. Advancing your beauty education . . . the experts today offer you a dainty brush . . . pencil-like holder . . . to develop your lips into tantalizing loveliness. And you just can't dream how lovely your mouth can be made to be . . . until you've tried the lip brush . . .

There is an art in shaping the lips . . . which only a lip brush can do . . . particularly the type I have in mind . . . with its small lucite handle fitting snugly into your fingers' grasp as you steady the soft fur-like hair over your mouth into color-smoothness of charming intrigue.

JUST FILL IN THE REST

You simply draw the color from a lipstick or a tiny rouge pot and outline your mouth . . . and then fill in the rest of the mouth with long, full strokes of the lip brush. Like magic, the lips suck off the color with entrancing evenness and dewy-ripe smoothness.

For the name of this super lip brush, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write me care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WISH HER HAPPINESS—
Wish the engaged girl happiness. Tell her how glad you are to learn of her engagement but save the actual "congratulations" for her fiancé.

Fashion

AN EYE-CATCHING SUIT for spring is this off-white wool two-piece, so lusciously soft in both color and material texture. High-style interest is created in details of navy and hot pink applique at the shoulder line . . . corded tie at the waistline . . . and notched finish at the bottom. It is worn over a straight skirt with high pleats front and back. To top this fascinating costume . . . Universal starlet Peggy Ryan wears a wide-brimmed hat of matching fabric . . . carrying out the symphony of ultra-femininity.—R. M.

Thank-You For Gifts

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
1—Should shower presents be acknowledged as well as wedding gifts?

2—If so, is ordinary correspondence paper correct, or should I buy smaller cards?

3—If the person is present at more than one shower, should that person receive two thank-you notes?

WALDA.

1—Yes.
2—You may use your personal letter-paper. The small monogrammed sheets on which you wrote to me are charmingly suitable. No need to buy cards for these thank-you notes.

3—If the showers are as near together as one or two days, you might properly combine your thanks for the two presents. But don't wait for a shower that is to take place some time after the first one and postpone your thanks until the later one.

Sandwich Fillings

By MARTHA LEE

GOOD FOOD is essential to good health and good health is essential to victory. The war has focused attention on health and food and as a result the lunches that "go to work" are in the lime-light.

There are four types of food in the adequate carried lunch. First of all, there are cold drinks, hot drinks or soup. A thermos bottle is best to carry these in. The mainstay of the lunch, of course, is sandwiches. Satisfying fillings are demanded here. For a crisp texture, raw vegetables, relishes, pickles, nuts and salads may be included. Lastly, there are desserts—fruits, cakes, cookies and even puddings.

SANDWICH-MAKING

Perhaps the hardest part of packing a lunch every day is making sandwiches. Men and women doing strenuous work are not satisfied with delicate foods. Meat is probably the favorite sandwich filling and meat rationing has made it necessary to plan carefully so that it may be included. By alternating slices of roast or ready-to-eat meat with extended meat spreads for sandwiches, meat points go further.

CHOPPED LIVER SPREAD

$\frac{1}{2}$ lb. liver Water
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup finely chopped celery
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped onion
3 hard-cooked eggs
Salt and pepper to season
Mayonnaise

Simmer liver in water until tender. Drain. Chop finely in chopping bowl or put through food grinder with fine knife. Add celery, onion and finely diced hard-cooked eggs. Combine with salt and pepper and enough mayonnaise to moisten. Chill thoroughly. Here are other suggestions for lunch-box menus:

MEAT SANDWICH FILLINGS

Sliced meat filling—Use sliced ham, pork roast, beef, veal, lamb, tongue or poultry; season to taste. Chopped Meat Filling—Chop meat, moisten with mayonnaise and season to taste with salt, pepper, minced onion, olives, chives, celery, parsley or watercress.

Chicken Forecmeat Filling—Pound 1 cup cooked chicken meat to a smooth paste, add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup mayonnaise and season with salt and pepper.

Ham and Peanut Butter—Mix $\frac{1}{2}$ cup deviled ham with $\frac{1}{4}$ cup peanut butter, adding mayonnaise to moisten. Sprinkle chopped sweet pickles over filling for variety. Corned Beef Paste— $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon dry mustard to 1 cup diced, cooked corned beef and pound to a paste, add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup mayonnaise and mix well.

FRUIT LOAF CAKE

3 1-3 cups sifted cake flour
5 tsp. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup shortening
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups sugar $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. vanilla
4 eggs, well beaten
1 cup milk (scant)
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup seedless raisins

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cream shortening until soft and smooth; gradually add sugar, creaming until very fluffy. Beat in flavoring, eggs and raisins. Add flour alternately with milk, beating until smooth after each addition. Turn into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about one hour. Makes one loaf 9x5x3 inches.

OATMEAL HERMITS

$1\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. cinnamon
2 cups oatmeal
1 cup seeded raisins
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon; stir in oatmeal and raisins. Cream shortening, gradually beat in sugar, then eggs; stir in flour-oatmeal mixture alternately with milk. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet and bake in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) about 15 minutes. Makes 3 dozen cookies.

TAKE A TIP from Columbia Star Jinx Falkenburg . . . formerly one of the top-notch cover girls in the country . . . and use a lip brush to arch your lip for a perfect mouth. For divine color and smoothness, a lip brush is the tried and true Hollywood way . . . the way the beauties do it for the glory of their smiling kissables.

Wants Income Facts

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—My wife agrees the allowance I give her for the house and to buy clothes for herself and the children is adequate, but she wants to know about my income and my money affairs generally speaking.

There are some things I prefer to keep to myself; I'm making much more money than when we were married, but I feel if she knew the exact amount, it would be an inducement for her to become extravagant. I'm opposed to this noisy business on the part of women, even if one of them happens to be your wife. She reads your column. Please back me up in this. H. C. T.

My vote goes to your wife, rather than you, in this matter. And don't you know that all over these United States there are very splendid bank buildings, built according to law largely through the secret bank accounts which depositors have had, unknown to anyone?

Secrecy in regard to financial matters has kept many a widow and her children from the inheritance which should have been theirs. If this lady was good enough to marry you and be the mother of your children, I think she's good enough to know your income.

Wear Sturdy Clothes Now

By BETTINA BEDWELL

NON-RATIONED shoes, by the most famous shoe designers, have wooden soles this Spring. The tops are made of fabric and they are earmarked for town wear, and not just sports.

Delman, who is introducing these shoes, makes the soles of polished wood and I can tell you they are as light as light-weight leather. No. 1 is a town shoe made of navy blue gabardine with red polished wooden soles and red piping. No. 2 is the new Delman sandal to wear when the weather gets really warm.

The soles are of polished wood with knobs along the sides, which serve to hold decorative braid bands which make the sandal. You can have bands of your dress material, or other colored braid bands to wear with different costumes.

ALL AROUND TOWN: Vincent Lopez, who lives in a hotel and doesn't need the points, has humorously added the ration stamps from books 3 and 4 to his famed $50,000 stamp collection... Gertrude Niesen is stopping the show in the pre-Broadway "Follow the Girls" singing a song with hilarious lyrics entitled "I Wanna Get Married"... Raymond Paige met Margie Hart in Schrafft's and commented on the pin the redhead was wearing indicating she had donated blood to the Red Cross. FABLES FROM FIFTIES: A couple of midnights ago a dozen soldiers were throwing themselves a small party at the Hurricane. An officer in the group, sighting a big buxom blonde at another table, crossed over to her and spoke rather shyly. "Miss Tucker," he pleaded, "the boys with me are on their last furlough before going overseas. They'd sure get a thrill if you'd sing 'Some of These Days' for them..." The buxom blonde obliged, then spent 20 minutes talking to the boys and autographing "Sophie Tucker" on the menus. Then she brought all of them a drink and left.

Of course you know Sophie Tucker isn't even in town. The big buxom blonde who looked so much like her was Lulu Bates, the Hit Parade singer, who has the same kind of a soft heart as Sophie's. She just couldn't disappoint the kids.

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, March 8—At the writers' table at Metra, a writer, who had been having trouble with a script, was bemoaning the fact that he had ever become a writer.

"All playwrights talk like that at some time," said John McEwan, a veteran. "I remember a story George M. Cohan told me when I was working with him on a play."

McEwan proceeded to tell the story of George M. Cohan walking along Forty-second st. the night after "Deep Purple," by Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner, had opened. Cohan saw Armstrong near the theater and said: "Congratulations, Paul. I see by the reviews that you've got a hit."

"The notices were O. K.," said Armstrong, "but not what they should have been. If they had put the play on as we had originally written it, they would have been much better."

"And the critics praised the performances," continued Cohan. "Those actors! What they're doing to the lines. That's why I'm out here on the sidewalk," said

Edward G. Robinson

Armstrong. "I can't stay in the theater and watch them." Cohan was amused by Armstrong's beefs, but merely commented: "That's show business, Paul."

"George," said Armstrong, "speaking as a writer, I can understand a guy writing one play, but I'll never be able to understand why a guy writes another one."

EDWARD G. ROBINSON, between scenes on the set of "Mr. Winkle Goes to War," told a story that he had heard about the Hollywood of long ago. In fact, it was back in the days when Carl Laemmle was running Universal Pictures.

Laemmle, so the yarn goes, used to keep two copies of the same script on his desk. One script contained about 175 pages and the other about 100 pages, so that one was obviously heavier, thicker and bulkier than the other.

A certain afternoon a noted Broadway theatrical producer was ushered into Laemmle's office. The producer came to see him on an interview regarding becoming a producer at Universal. The Broadway producer's egotistical reputation had preceded him, and his introductory conversation with Laemmle proved it.

Laemmle, picking up the two scripts from his desk, walked over to the man and said: "I have here two versions of the same story. I want your opinion of which one you would produce." "That's easy," said the Broadway producer confidently. And he picked out the lighter script. "Why that one?" asked Laemmle.

The producer replied: "I'd film this one because there are fewer pages, which means a shorter shooting schedule and, therefore, less money."

Laemmle slowly replied: "You're wrong. Both scripts have nothing but blank pages. And I don't believe I want a producer who doesn't even look at a script before he makes a decision."

WALTER HUSTON, according to his friends, will announce his candidacy for the congressional seat soon to be vacated by Will Rogers, Jr. Michael Powell, of "The Invaders," is now filming a modern "Canterbury Tales" in England... Don Loper and Ruth Brady were together at the Ballet... Nelson Eddy, who recently returned from an overseas camp tour, says the exchange entertainment is now a policy in foreign countries. International artists from Russia, for example, entertain American soldiers, while American entertainers are sent to entertain the Russians.

Lepke, 'The Judge'

By George E. Sokolsky

HE WOULD NOT TALK sufficiently to save his life. Perhaps in the solemn moments of introspection, he had reached the conclusion that his life was not worth saving. What is Al Capone doing with his remaining years? What more could Lepke do?

Lepke was a product of a social and political system which can exist only among free people. In a totalitarian country, he would become the law. He represented not so much the evasion of the law as that vast area where the law does not apply at all. He became king of the marginal region. He stepped in to control industries in which neither the labor union nor the finance-capitalist were able to produce stability. Lepke produced it by murder and its attendant crimes.

The same energy and competence devoted to constructive activities would have produced in Louis Buchalter an honorable and successful personality. He might have been one of America's leading lawyers. His associates in crime referred to him as "the judge." His life of crime was in a sense constructive: he found crime disorganized and anarchistic; he made it into a monopolistic agency obedient to his will.

THE QUESTION might well be asked why Lepke did not go straight when he matured into good clothes, good books and good golf clubs. The answer to that is that his crooked world would no more let him go straight than he would permit his gangsters to go straight. Their lives were intertwined in a mesh of secrets which, if disclosed could only lead to death.

Lepke differs from Dillinger and Capone in that he was, more than anything else, a crime broker. He sold crime and paid off criminals. His principal customers were employers, labor leaders and politicians. Some of his customers became so involved in his affairs that, in time, he owned them much as someone owns a "piece" of a prizefighter. He could sell their services and he could guarantee favors. The criminal who are getting off easy in this Lepke episode are his customers, their lawyers, and the political go-betweens. Lepke might have sent dozens of them to suicide or the electric chair.

IN SPITE OF THE FACT that the Lepke story cannot be proved, it is fairly well known. His customers are known. Their political partners are known. The fingers of law and justice point to the criminals and they will pay, as he paid, for murder will out no matter how respectable the mur-derer becomes, no matter what public office he may hold, no matter how completely he has covered himself with favorable publicity. The ghost of Lepke will walk—and it will walk in the public prints.

It is often said that public officials should remain in office for prolonged periods because of the experience gained on the actual job. The danger of prolonged continuity lies in the barnacles that fasten themselves upon the ship of state. This is true in every form and type of government. Such criminals as Lepke exist only with the consent and connivance of public officials. They are, in fact, privileged characters who are permitted the run of the rosy politicians who divide the profits with them.

LEPKE WAS a public figure; his name was well known; his activities were boasted and discussed freely and openly by the admirers of the daring as well as by the torturers. Yet he never had to bother about the law until Tom Dewey went gang-busting. Who gave Lepke this vast protection and why? Why was Murder, Inc., permitted to form itself and operate at all? The politicians who made Lepke possible are the criminals in fact. They should be made to pay for the crimes they encouraged. Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc.

Florida Realty Boom On; Late Gambling Tempest

By JACK CONWAY

MIAMI, Fla., March 3—Florida, after a winter in which gambling ran wide open, is having its usual late winter investigation. One would think after listening to the remarks of some of the authorities that everyone did not know that bookmakers and wire services have been in operation, that most cities and towns had their horse rooms, that hotel lobbies, stores and clubs had their allotments of slot machines, and that the swanky clubs had roulette, bird cages, dice and their gambling games.

The gambling lid was tossed into the Atlantic Ocean months ago, and nobody appeared alarmed. A Dade County grand jury, asked to investigate gambling and bribery, adjourned without taking any action.

Mayor John Levi of Miami Beach declared that if the State wishes to make certain that all bets on horse races pass through the mutual windows of the tracks that it should provide more law enforcement agents. The mayor does not believe limited police departments can chase criminals, enforce traffic regulations and also trail bookmakers to their haunts.

"There are a lot of people who like to bet," said Mayor Levi. "I believe they have just as much right to place their bets from a hotel room as those who can afford time and money to go to the tracks."

The mayor also touched on the moral side of betting, whether it is less sinful to wager $2 on a horse over a telephone from a hotel room or to place the same amount of money on a nag at the track.

"I doubt," added the mayor, "whether St. Peter will ever ask horse fans whether they placed their bets from the grandstand or a hotel room."

While the "heat" has been on for the past week, the horse rooms have not run wide open. They have accepted wagers of regular clients, and have not posted odds, jockey changes and scratches on their boards.

"Now that the Widener is out of the way and the state cut in on the $205,000 handle on the big race, things will probably return to normal," remarked one bookmaker.

Rich Refugees Gamble

THOUSANDS of wealthy refugees, who got their huge fortunes out of Europe as Hitler reached for their wealth, have added to the gaiety and merriment of the gambling houses. In Europe, open gambling is common, and the Florida casinos have benefited from this wealth from the old world. Many of these refugees are purchasing $20,000 to $100,000 homes in Florida and are planning permanent homes here. They figure that even when the war ends in Europe there will be so many adjustments to be made there that life in this country will be much more pleasant.

Real estate appeals to these Europeans. They know that in Europe that even in depression periods when money has often been of little value that real estate has boomed. In the Miami area in recent weeks, there have been sales of $3,000,000 in homes alone. Many of these sales have been for cash.

This all shows that there is tremendous wealth in Florida this season. There may be another crash in values in post war days, but there are thousands of people who are willing to place their cash in real estate.

Purchasing Antiques

THE EUROPEAN refugees are also bidding record prices for valuable antiques. This has been particularly true in the Palm Beach area. Many American owners of antiques feel this is the time to get the highest possible price for their holdings.

One swanky Palm Beach store has a consignment of diamonds which are owned by a refugee from France. Diamonds have always attracted much attention from people who have been European minded. They have been considered as the best form of international currency. This particular collection of diamonds is for sale. They will probably be sold before the season closes.

American women, like the Europeans, have particular fondness for diamonds. Many of them have rich husbands who have fat purses as a result of profitable war contracts. Part of this fresh money will be given to the refugees in return for the diamonds.

Florida hotel and apartment properties are bringing top prices in sales. It is believed that the boom in Florida will continue until the war ends when world travel will be opened again and when there will be new building.

Terror's Crown Seen in Danger

Another near capacity crowd will be moving into the Arena tonight when Bobby Managoff, filling in for the hospitalized Andre Fadnis, attempts to strip the Golden Terror of the duration championship in the main bout of the weekly wrestling show under the direction of Promoter Paul Bowser.

Managoff, a surprise substitute who has been highly protested by the Terror, will be close to an even choice to follow his father's footsteps to the crown.

Managoff recently held World's Champion Steve "Crusher" Casey to a draw. He wrestled here previously this season.

Tech Tourney in Bow At Hub Garden Today

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Playing first fiddle in the Tech Tourney tune-ups since the opening of the basketball season last December, only a dismal demotion can prevent Somerville High School's classy quintet from tripping to the title in the three evenings of play. Coach Vin Cronin's crew will open their assault on the crown tonight in the final contest of the Class A competition against North Quincy at the Garden.

Surprisingly enough, it's this first test that has Maestro Cronin worried. Not that the boys from the Granite City are any great shakes—they're good, though, or else they wouldn't be in the Tech Tourney—but it's the awe-inspiring $10,000 floor with its transparent backboards that has the Somerville mentor coming up with double-talk.

CRONIN CONFIDENT

"We're going to win the Tech Tourney," boldly declares a confident Mr. Cronin. "But maybe you'd better not print that. Oh, well, go ahead. My kids can win it. They can beat anybody. But maybe you'd better not say that because I'd be putting myself too far out on a limb. Oh, go ahead. Print anything you want."

And so, backed by court expert No. 1, Foxy Flumere, here's a positive vote for Somerville to go all the way this year.

Somerville will be going into this North Quincy tussle with seven veterans of last year's tournament gracing its versatile squad. This septet includes starters Urban Landini, Tony Lavalli, Bob Pugatch, Tom McCarthy and Charlie Diehl and spares Robert Judge and Dick Snow. Completing the group which has romped through 16 opponents will be Al Perry, Ed Colbert, George Hughes, Jim Hickey and Ken Goodwin.

FIRST ROUND FAVORITES

Somerville vs. North Quincy will wind up the Class A program which will get started at 6:30 p. m. when New Bedford opens against Haverhill. Waltham vs. Brockton will share the first of the two twin bills to be followed by the Attleboro, defending champion, against Medford. All first named will be slight favorites in this first round.

This afternoon, Framingham, Class B choice to win the title, and Provincetown High schools were to take over honors as the first teams to step on the new Garden layout, sharing the opening double-header with Belmont vs. Newburyport, Braintree vs. Story and Lexington vs. Methuen were to end the first flight.

Tournament Director Henry McCarthy, had announced officials for the entire play. They were Art Gore, Joe O'Brien, Ed Keller, Louis Hack, Harry Greenberg, Tony Gentile and Tom Murphy with one other to be announced at game time.

Sharkey Ref On Title Card

A strong supporting card of four featherweight bouts—one to be refereed by former world's heavyweight champion, Jack Sharkey—will be under the world's championship match between Phil Terranova, New York titlist, and Sal Bartolo, No. 1 challenger from East Boston, at the Goodwin A. C. program in the Old Depot Friday night.

Sharkey has long been recognized as one of New England's outstanding referees.

Sharkey will referee either the eight-round semi-final between Whistlin' Willie Roach, New York, and Larry Bolvin, Providence, or one of the three sixes. These sizes will pit Jackie Cunningham, a Terranova sparring partner, against Sammy Garcia, Quincy; Steve Kramer, South End vs. Archie Goodbee, Hartford, and Eddie DeAngella, Revere vs. Joey Hebert, Lowell.

CLASSY BROTHER ACT—Charlie, 1., and Jack White, highest scoring brother act in the class A high school basketball league. They are in the North Quincy High lineup against undefeated Somerville in the Tech Tourney games at Boston Garden tonight.

Wings Lash B's, 8-4

By BILL GRIMES

Despite the fact they were short handed, the Detroit Red Wings hung an 8 to 4 defeat on the Bruins last night at the Boston Garden, in the presence of approximately 7500 die hards.

After last night's setback, the Bruins' backs are really against the wall. Mathematically, they are still in the fight for the Stanley Cup play-offs. But, the situation is a hopeless one. Here's the set up: If they win their remaining games against the four toughest clubs in the league, Canadiens, Chicago, Detroit and Toronto and the Maple Leafs lose three out of four, the Bruins will make the grade. They can be eliminated before they play Canadiens, Sunday night, by Toronto taking both ends of their Thursday and Saturday night home and home series with Rangers.

BEST PLAYERS OUT

The Red Wings didn't have either Joe Carveth, their high scoring right winger, or Bill Quackenbush, one of the best defencemen in the N. H. L. last night. They are both on the injured list, although Carveth is on the trip to take treatments from Trainer "Honey" Walker for a "Charley horse."

Carl Liscombe wasn't able to beat Bert Gardiner but he came up with four assists, which jumped him from a sixth place tie with Bill Cowley to the No. 3 spot five points behind Herbie Cain in the race for the N. H. L. scoring honors.

Art Jackson was the big point winner for the Bruins, with three assists, which gave him an even 60, while Pat Egan nicked Connie Dion for two goals, and Dit Clapper and Bill Cowley accounted for the other Boston tallies.

Before the game, the hockey writers selected Bill Cowley as the most important Bruin player and the "Cowboy" will be presented with the Dufresne Trophy.
